NAILA BAGH PALACE - A HERITAGE PROPERTY IN JAIPUR

Front view of Palace

The 18th century residence of Thakur Fateh Singh Ji Naila which dates from 1872 has been converted into a heritage palace located within the heart of Jaipur.

This ancestral property has been retained by the Thakur Dushyant Singh Naila (6th descendant of Naila family) along with his son Trivikram Naila. Our short visit to the property was definitely too short to experience the grandeur of the palace. There are 14 heritage rooms at present and none of them to be a look-alike. All Air-conditioned rooms have unique interiors, colonial furniture and ornate frescoes which immediately catches one's attention. The tastefully selected paintings hanging on the walls and in corridors add artistic value to the rooms. Clients staying on the premiere floor can have an amazing view of the pool (4.5' ft deep). The designer small and big size bathtub in some bathrooms is sure to offer a relaxed personal space while looking out of the window.

A candle-lit dining can be arranged in the large front courtyard of the palace surrounded by open space along with puppet show and live music for the guests to enjoy a calm evening. Second option for dining is “ Savera-A pool side restaurant “ which is decorated with old pictures and old furniture ensuring personalize and cozy ambiance to the guests.

Evening entertainment options are an attraction among the guests who can participate in local folk dance, puppet dance or fusion band performance by Trivikram and his group (this performance is only on special request).
